

Throw out everything you have heard about the large, corner, private office.

PRIVATE OFFICE

Throw out everything you have heard about the large, corner, private office. While many private offices have remained essentially the same for decades, the rest of the workplace has changed dramatically.

The Private Office survey is designed specifically for those who reside in private offices and would like to discover new ways to improve the effectiveness of their office. It identifies what users say is important and if their current environment supports these attributes. Questions are linked to a specific design insight.

Survey reports include:

A profile for each work group and organization is developed, which identifies what size of private office, with applications, would work the best for this individual and company as a whole.

Steelcase

For further information, please contact your Steelcase Representative.