

Education Webinars

Beyond the Lesson Plan

In recent years, designing classrooms and lesson plans to support student engagement and wellbeing has been at the forefront. Today's crisis has only accelerated educational institutions in prioritizing the physical, cognitive and emotional safety of students and teachers across learning environments - whether physical or remote.

In our latest webinar, Beyond the Lesson Plan, Jeff Selingo and a panel of experts discuss why wellbeing is fundamental in education and how schools can better support the flourishing of educators and students today.

Host:

Jeff Selingo - Author, Columnist, Professor of Practice at Arizona State University

Panelists:

- Katy Redd - Associate Director for Prevention, Development and Media Relations at University of Texas at Austin
- Ryan Bretag - Director of Instructional Innovation for Glenbrook High Schools in Glenview, Illinois
- Aileen Strickland McGee - Researcher, Steelcase WorkSpace Futures

Webinar Recordings

We're continuing to share what we're learning about creating effective environments to support educators and students. Sign up now for full access to our past webinars, covering a range of topics including active learning, remote education and the future of classroom design.

© 1996 - 2021 Steelcase Inc. is the global leader in office furniture, interior architecture and space solutions for offices, hospitals and classrooms. Our furniture is inspired by innovative research in workspace design.