The new era of hybrid work is here. Providing a new level of choice, control and flexibility in the workplace has never been more important. An ecosystem of compelling spaces will earn the commute and give people dynamic spaces where they can do their best work.

In this guide, see how the Steelcase Flex Collection supports people in the hybrid workplace.

Create an Ecosystem of Spaces

The best hybrid workplaces not only support collaborative work, but also the growing need for focus time. The Steelcase Flex Collection supports high-performing teams and individuals – and all the kinds of work they do. The broad product collection comes together to create a wide range of applications that allow people to focus, collaborate and connect, while giving them the flexibility to adapt their space to meet their rapidly changing work activities.

Steelcase Flex Principles

Adapt on Demand

With flexibility at the core of the design, the Steelcase Flex Collection empowers people to work their own way. A range of interconnected essentials with built-in mobility allows workspaces to adapt on demand for work that happens in the moment, and for whatever tomorrow brings.

Community-Based Design

Just like city neighborhoods have homes and shared spaces, the hybrid workplace should support both individual work and teamwork. The Steelcase Flex collection gives people the spaces, tech and tools they need for focus time, collaboration and social connections - all while making it easy to shift between work modes.

Settings

Hybrid work is about options. Explore settings that allow for focus, collaboration and social connections in the hybrid workplace.
