SIDEWALK
Studio B, USA

Effective Efficient Space.

Working more efficiently means working smarter - involving good, open communication. Sidewalk creates a group sanctuary, bringing individuals together in a soft space.

———— As companies have become more reliant on team-based structures and more participative management styles, open communication is becoming more important. Relaxed and comfortable and relaxed environments have proven that they can foster communication and interaction. The office has shifted from a place to work as an individual to a place to work as a team. Sidewalk allows the users the satisfaction of controlling their environment so that it responds to the group's unique and unpredictable needs. "Go glides" and casters facilitate movement, "slip fit" allows for fluid spaces, and abutting multiple pieces allow for enclosure or division of space.

———— Just as the office has affected the home, the home is impacting the office. Office design that provides a reprieve from the acceleration of modern day stress is important.
