

Planning Idea

ID: MA7DP8HJ

An Office for Teaching and Interaction

This private office has its kit of parts configured to support different modes of thinking and interacting with multiple students during office hours.

It has intentionally designed zones for creating, interacting, problem-solving and storing.

The white boards on the walls encourage interaction and problem-solving.

The tall side table on casters allows instructor and visitors to stay on a high level when interacting and working at the whiteboard, or it can be moved closer to the height-adjustable desk at busy grading periods to array papers and files.
