Short-term Workplace Measurement

Steelcase Workplace Advisor Study helps you discover what's working and what's needed in your workplace to inform decisions before or after a major capital investment.

This short-term space measurement engagement combines sensor data, analysis and expert consultation to reveal opportunities to serve people better and do more with less.

Lead Smart Change

Over a 4- to 12-week period, Workplace Advisor Study combines sensor data and employee surveys to understand space usage and perspectives usually before or after a major capital investment. The Study dashboard transforms raw data into intuitive, actionable information about space utilization and opportunities to improve productivity, save money and avoid costs. The analysis is captured in a custom report with consultation from our Applied Research + Consulting team to help you translate findings into high-impact action steps.

HOW IT WORKS

Questions and Goals

Consultants identify key questions and goals for your Study engagement.

Sensors and Surveys

Sensors collect anonymous usage data; employees provide perspective via surveys.

Dashboard

Intelligence is applied to display actionable information, including space comparisons and trends.

Consultation and Report

Experts provide detailed analysis and considerations, documented in a sharable report.

KEY ADVANTAGES

Steelcase Workplace Advisor Study is built on the Microsoft Azure® platform, combining world-class technology with insights that lead to better performance.

Private + Secure

Data tracks space usage while preserving employee anonymity. Information is stored securely and accessible by your approved contacts.

Valuable Insights

Exclusive algorithms present data in ways that enable smart decision making, including analyses of mobility, the size of conference rooms and more.

Analysis + Consulting

A Steelcase Applied Research + Consulting expert will help you interpret findings and consider next steps.

Rich Data

Study gathers qualitative and quantitative data to create an accurate, informative picture of workplace performance.

Standard Report

At the end of your Study, you receive a report on findings and considerations specific to your space and organization.

Easy Experience

A Steelcase Customer Experience Manager handles all project details and coordinates with your team for a seamless experience.
